It is encouraging to note that while there was bickering among the United Nations allies over who was most carnest about the campaign against aggression in Korea they are all standing firm on the demand that any cease-fire agreement include a buffer zone along the present battle-line.

The Reds want that zone established exactly on the 38th parallet, for two reasons. (1) It is almost indefensible from a military standpoint should the Reds want to double-cross us later on, and (2) It marks the political boundary between North and South Korea, and to set the buffer zone along the battle line farther north would confess to the world that the Reds took a licking in the war.

But the Western ailies are standing pat. And that's encouraging. They are standing together because times now are much more dangerous than when the Korea fighting

A year ago Great Britain was conciliatory toward Red China and Russia, a bit laggard about helping us in the Korean fight. We called it "appeasement." But a year later we know what the British were afraid of then - because what they were afraid of has come to

The British were afraid of trouble around their oil supply in the Middle East. And trouble came - in

But when trouble actually comes there is an end to suspense, and free men stand together against a common, world-wide threat.

Today Americans respect the British more for keeping a cautious eye about the possibility of trouble elsewhere besides Korea; and, in turn, the British have a higher regard for our judgment-which was, that action speaks louder than words when you are dealing with the Reds.

This might mean we are closer to world war today than a year ago, but that is doubtful. It is much more likely than the spectacle of the rest of the world lining up solidly against them in this moment of danger has caused the Russians to take new caution.

Otherwise it is hard to explain the action of the Red Chinese in change operators, and others be ever agreeing to meet with us and present Wednesday night. talk about calling off the war in Baker nodded and ushered Mc-Adams into his private office.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO THE CITIZENS OF HOPE:

To-morrow you will select a man and place him at the head of your city government. That person should be well qualified to assume that important position. We have reached a point in our progress that requires a mayor to be on instant call twenty four hours a day. The assets of our city now total over $2,000,000.00.

In my humble opinion my qualifications are sufficient to enable me to furnish competent and capable leadership. Before World War II I attended Henderson State Teachers College for two years. After the war I entered the University of Arkansas and ultimately graduated with a Bachelor of Laws degree. In my preparation for entry into the School of Law I concentrated on the study of state and municipal government. For the past three years I have practiced law in the City of Hope.

Another thing, which in my opinion, qualifies me for this important office is the fact that Hope and Hempstead County has been my home all of my life. I have seen Hope grow from a town into a city of the first class and I understand its problems. Our progress has been steady and continuous. This growth cannot to attributed to one single person or group of persons. It is because our pioneers had the foresight and courage to keep their nose to the grindstone and build a city that has attracted and will continue to attract, new blood.

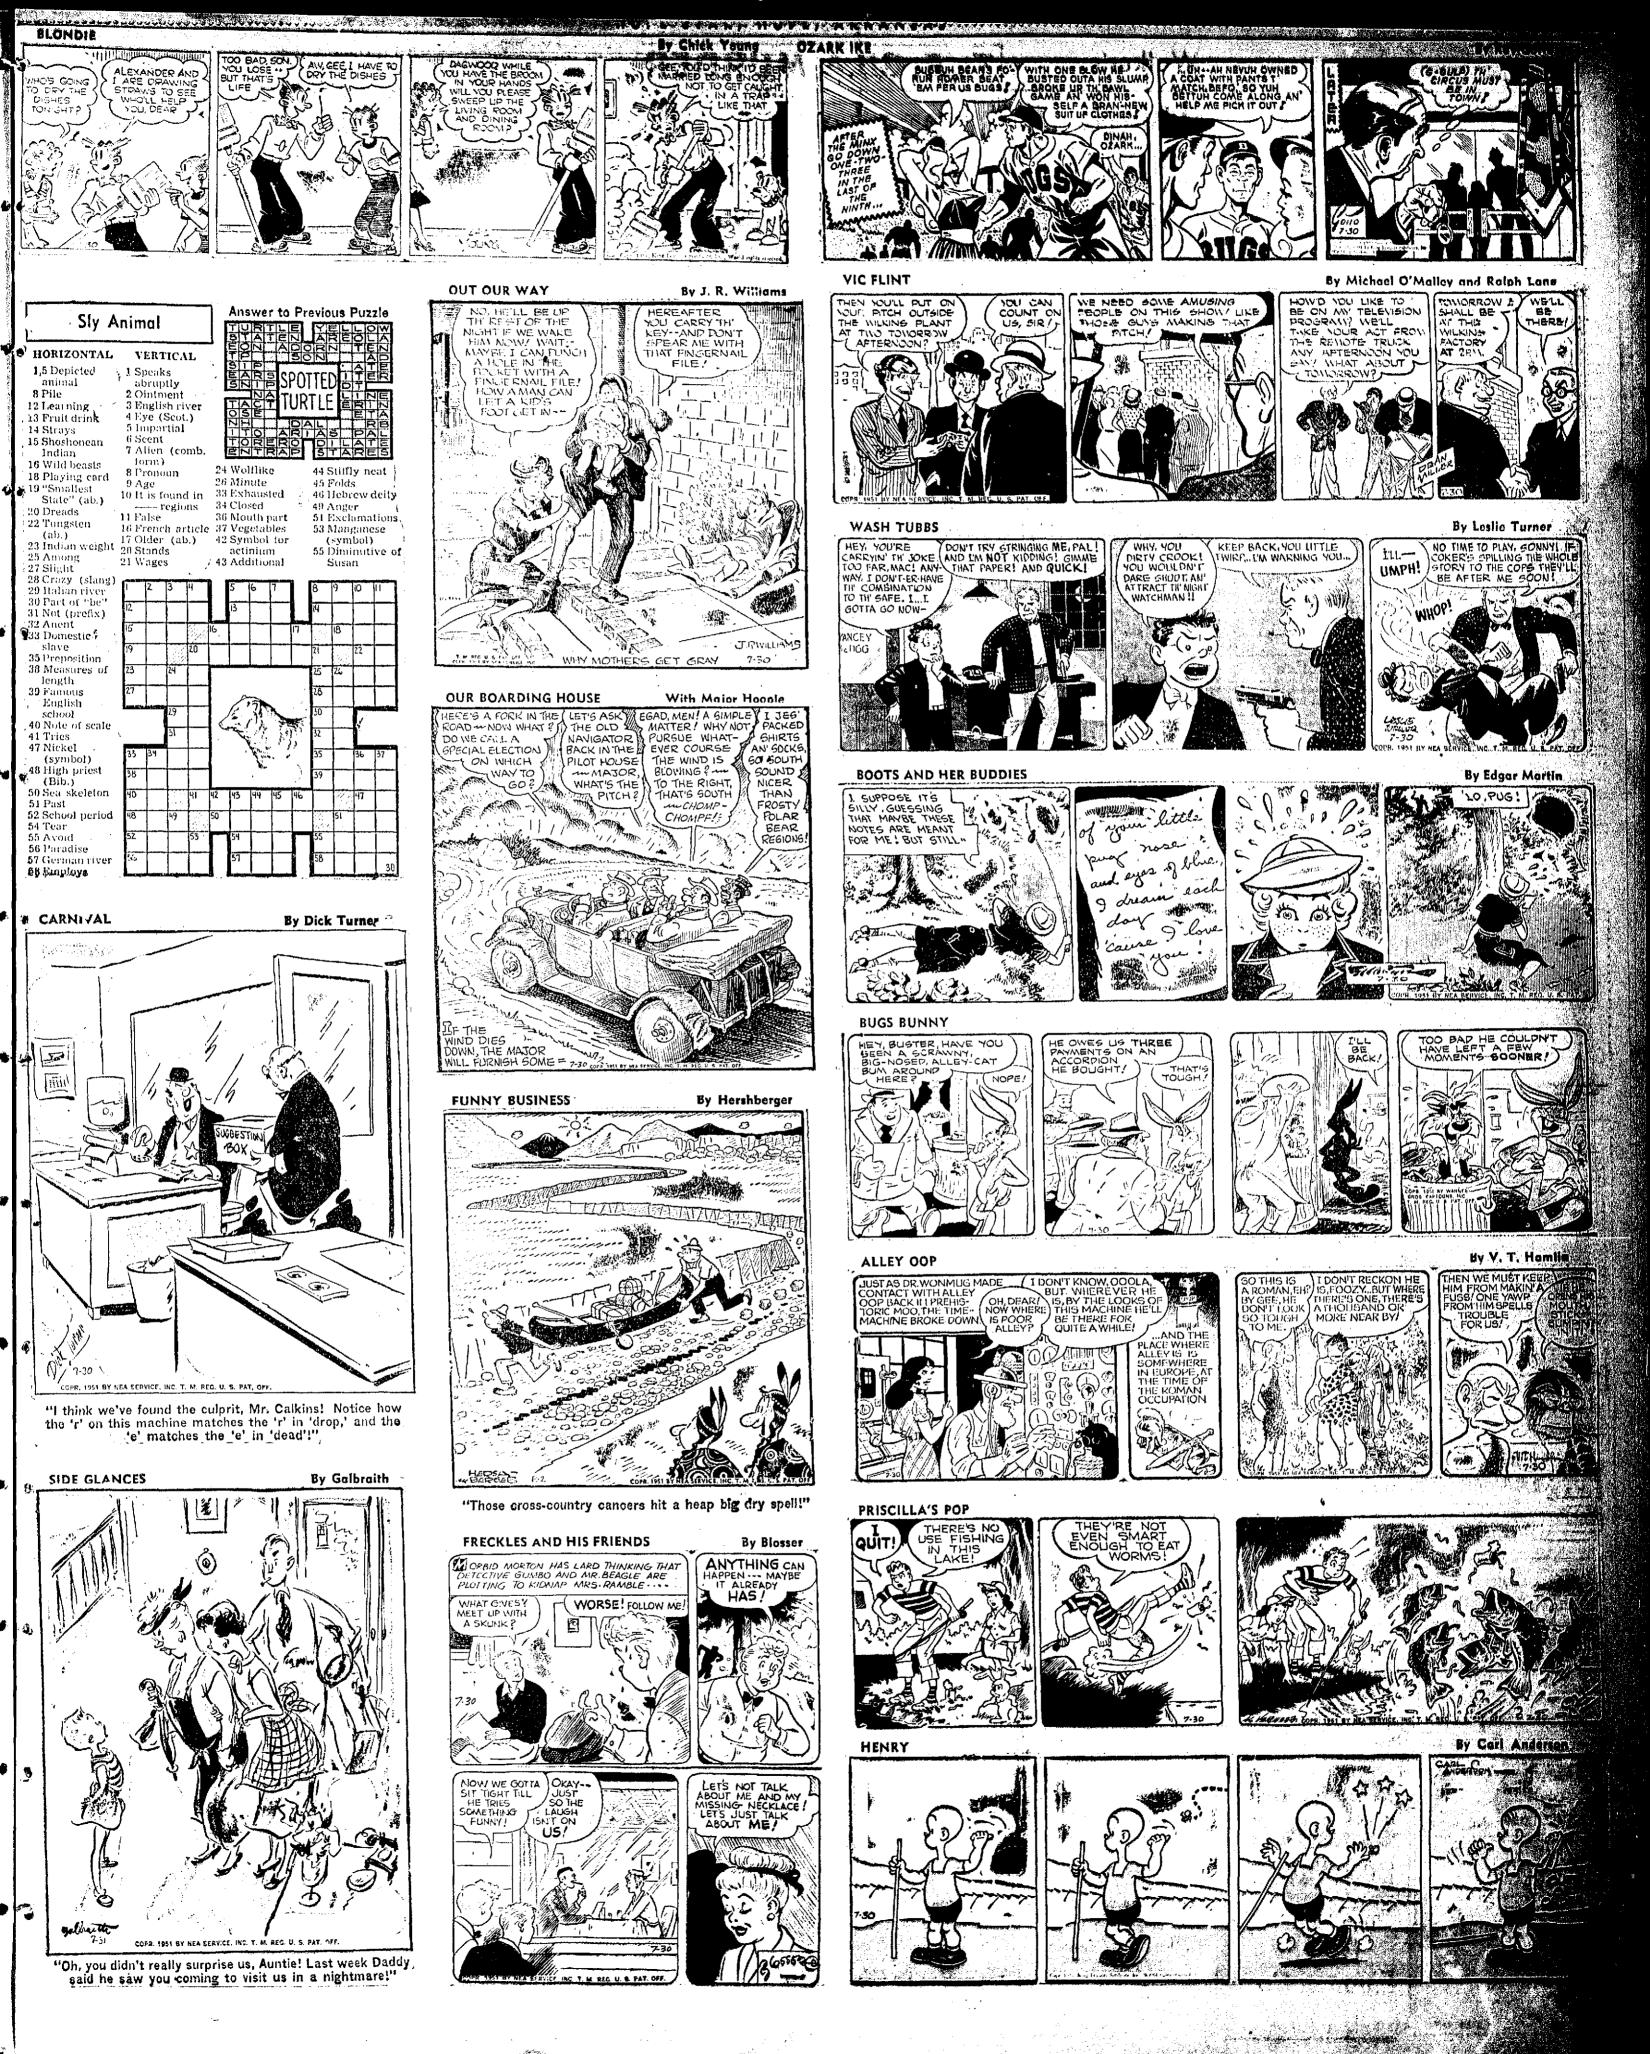

I have made but one promise in my campaign and that is to do the best I can for our city. In carrying out this promise I will call upon EVERY person to fulfill his responsibility as a citizen of Hope and hand in hand we can go forward with that same steady and continuous progress that has brought us thus far.

Sincerely yours,

John L. Wilson, Jr. Candidate for Mayor

St. Paul, Minn., July 29 -(.P) -Unsually Calm Lloyd Mangrum headed for his home course in Chi-cago today, a $2,250 first prize check in his pocket and his nerves! slightly a jangle because of a threat that he hadn't better win the St. Paul open trumanment if he wanted to live. Mangum set a new St. Daul open record yesterday with a 266 for the 72 holes. He told of the threat at the ceremonies at which he received the check. Th call came Saturday night, he said, after he had set a new 18-hole record with a ten-strokeunder-par-62. It was about 11:30 when he answered the telephone in his hotel room. A voice told him, he said, "we've got a lot of money bet on the tournament; if you want to get out of St. Paul alive don't wan."

He reported the call to authorities and all during yesterday's play uniformed and plain clothes policemen mingled with the large guttery that followed him. How much the call upset him
